The Invisible Dog

27.3.08

One morning a Jake woke up he threw the covers off himself and jumped out of his football bed in excitement because it was his birthday. He ran down the stairs at high speed. He hoped he would get a dog. As he approached the living room he saw a box moving. He opened it and inside was an invisible dog.

It was a German shepherd. He lifted and gently hugged it. Jake ran outside and round the garden. Then Jake took him for a walk and on a lamppost they passed, it said dog show today. They ran down the road and saw poodles, dalmatians, collies, German shepherds, labradors and a table with trophies, medals and ribbons. Jake went to the judge. He was a crazy old man with white hair that curled at the front. Jake held it up to the judge and he looked at them. He said to them "you have won two awards one for the most unusual dog and the other one for most invisible dog". He announced the winners. Jake jumped up and down with. He got his award and ran home. He was so fast he forgot to clean the dogs paws. He said "MUM I WON TWO TROPHIES AND TWO RIBBONS. So I am calling him Tro. She saw the trail of paw prints and wondered if he had a dog.
