

At the start of the year the gardening club went out and the garden looked out of control and it was not really attractive so we decided to fix it.

We made a plan on a big bit of cardboard. We decided to take away some of the plants and leave some of the small trees in the garden.

So first we ordered a ton of pebbles, some sand and cement.

Then we dug out all the plants and rocks out of the ground.

After that we put on black sheeting to prevent weeds growing.

Then after that we discovered daffodils, so we had to cut holes in the black sheeting to let them grow.

Then we put on all of the pebbles.

After that we mixed sand, cement and water with Mr. Finlay to make good cement.

Then we filled in the spaces with the cement and the reason we did this was to stop all of the stones and soil falling out.
